U. S. AVIATORS TO BE RECALLED FROM MORROCCO

(By Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—President Coolidge wants the American aviators to quit Morocco and cease their warring upon the Rif.

He is anxious that perfect neutrality be observed abroad. He desires that all Americans shall obey the laws of their own and other countries.

The President understands, it was said, at the White House today, that the laws of the United States provide that because of this country's extraterritorial rights in Morocco, American citizens must avoid all embroilments there.

Since a large number of American aviators were discovered in French planes, dropping tons of high explosives upon the Rif in their military concentrations, Secretary of State Kellogg has formally called to their attention their evident violation of the law.

President Coolidge believes that the Secretary of State took a proper course in the situation and that the American aviators, now informed, must either abandon their participation in the war or accept the responsibility and punishment for it.

Alameda County Has Population Of Half Million

Alameda county at the present time has a population of 475,000, while Oakland can boast of 290,000, according to an estimate made by David E. Martin county superintendent of schools for Alameda county.

According to Martin, the national census of 1920 revealed that population all over the country averaged 7.07 persons to each unit of average daily attendance in the schools, Martin states. Using this basis with an average daily attendance in Oakland last term of 40,158, it gives the population at that time as 283,917. Martin estimates it has increased to 290,000 since then.

The average daily attendance for schools in the entire county was 66,299, which places the population at 468,733 for that period.

S.P. COMPANY IS ASKING FOR FARE INCREASE

The Southern Pacific company will ask the Railroad Commission to raise its rate across San Francisco bay to twenty-five cents for a single fare and an increase in commutation books to $6.50. This statement was brought out yesterday at the meeting of the Railroad Commission in the city council chambers of Oakland.

In spite of the statement by the Southern Pacific company the Key System Transit company will not ask for a definite increase either for transbay fares or for street car fares according to testimony presented yesterday.

C. O. U. Miller, president of the Key System in an informal statement made during the hearing yesterday said:

"We are merely asking an adequate return on our investment. The methods we are leaving to the verdict of the commission. All we ask it that the raise in rates be done with the least amount of burden for the commuters and our car riders."

"Yesterday's session was devoted largely to the presentation of technical evidence concerning valuation, taxes, financing, mortgages and things of a similar nature. Testimony was given by General Manager George H. Harris, Engineer D. W. Campbell, Chief Operating Engineer H. P. Bell and Traffic Expert Richard Sasche."

Richmond is interested in the hearing due to the fact that when a decision of the commission is rendered they will include a "spreading of rates" which it is hoped will cut the fare between Richmond and Oakland down to two fares or from 18 cents to 12 cents. Judge D. J. Hall, city attorney is attending all sessions of the commission.

Rum Is Held To Blame In Murder Case

Mistook Richard Sharkey For Brother When He Opened Fire

SURRENDERS IN OAKLAND

Shooting Followed Three Day Drinking Bout And Quarrel

Newspaper stories telling that he had killed the wrong man prompted William Ward, laborer accused of slaying Richard Sharkey of Richmond to surrender himself to the Oakland Police yesterday. Ward who was sought by police over the entire Eastbay section all day Monday walked into the Sixteenth street station of Oakland yesterday morning and surrendered himself after wandering the streets for an entire day.

According to the police, Ward had really intended to shoot Joe Sharkey brother of the dead man.

After discovering his mistake Ward is said to have wandered about Berkeley and Oakland sobering up from the effects of a three week drinking bout with Joe Sharkey his fellow tenant at 2324 Eighth street. Yesterday afternoon spending the night sleeping in the marsh near the Key Route Basin he surrendered himself to police.

Ward stated that he and Joe Sharkey had quarreled violently during the drinking bout and that Sharkey had beaten him and called him names. Sharkey left the house Sunday afternoon and Ward brooded for several hours over their quarrel.

Sunday evening after Ward had retired Richard Sharkey, a teamster of the Stege Lumber and Hardware Company of Richmond called at the house to visit his brother. He opened the door and entered the room when Ward mistook him for his brother Joe Sharkey, fired five shots at him, killing him almost instantly.

A BRAVE SWIMMING GIRL

Gertrude Ederle, a courageous young American woman, failed again to swim the English channel from Cape Gris-Nez to Dover. She was in the water nearly twelve hours before she collapsed and had to be lifted on board that tug boat that followed her.

So that is that. The channel remains unconquered by a woman. Men have conquered the channel. In 1875 Captain Webb, an Englishman, tried the long swim. He made the distance in 21 hours and 4 minutes, covering thirty-nine miles. But later he was drowned trying to swim the Niagara rapids.

That may prove that men have more strength and endurance than women. It does not prove that men have more courage; which is the main thing.

The most dangerous swim in the world is the swim across the Niger river, infested with huge crocodiles. Another Englishman tried that swim. He was warned against it, but he insisted. When he started he took a negro slave with him. A great crocodile attacked the swimmers, the negro slave grappled with the reptile and put out its eyes. The negro finally won his way to the shore; the Englishman, whose name was Park, won the credit for being a most fearless man.—Miami Bulletin.

CUTTING DOWN LAWS

Economy in legislative activities is just as important as in financial undertakings. For years now the federal and state governments have been engaged in attempting to adjust and correct all the ills and woes of the world by legislative enactments. As a result we have been engaged in attempting to adjust and correct all the ills and woes of the world by legislative enactments. As a result we have been just about "lawed" to death.

Senator Curtis at Washington has announced that the primary attention of congress will be given to tax reduction and he suggests between the lines to his fellow statesmen that they cooperate to the extent of themselves pigeon-holing foolish bills instead of compelling congressional committees to do it.

It would be well if the state legislative leaders followed this example. The Illinois legislature has turned with the tide and enacted fifty-six less bills than we ground out at the session two years before. Other states have made similar records. Let the good work go on.

FUEL CONSERVATION

Coal and oil used as raw fuels, deliver only half of their energy into useful heat. When converted into gas at a modern gas plant and burned by the industrial user in a modern furnace, they go twice as far. In addition, valuable by products are recovered, such as liquid fuels, drugs, dyes, fertilizer, etc. The uses of gas are growing daily.

This is one of the times when any lamb in the Street is likely to become a mere chop before he can wink his anxious eye.

Prohibition may have caused a lot of liars, but think of the lies that the bartenders used to listen to.

Maybe the reason so many of our boys and girls try to act "wild" is because they have heard their elders say that "the good die young."

Every school teacher should carry as standard equipment a rear-vision mirror.

Anybody can give advice but only the wise ones can sell it.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Copyright 1923 by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

You May Wear a Fancy Bandeau On Your Shingled Head and Still Be in the Fashion.

THE boyish, short-chopped head does not really invite ornamental head-dress. There are some women who feel even that earrings and this young-mannish hair arrangement do not go well together. But the fact remains that interest in earrings recently seems to have been revived.

The beaded bands worn on the hair match those used to trim the frock, and are fastened at the side of the head with large, flat, artificial flowers.

Quite recently at gatherings of extremely smart women earrings were decidedly in evidence—most of them long, heavy pendants. Maybe it is inconsistent with the new styles in hair dressing, but then fashions are not consistent—nor ever were.

After all our ideas on consistencies and harmonies in dress are largely matters of precedence. We say that velvet and gingham do not go together—that calico and georgette are not compatible. Certain colors we regard as unsuitable for evening wear—certain others for street wear. And what we chiefly mean is that such combinations have not been used before. We might look for them in vain in the records of past fashion. Then some one comes along—some rather daring individual with a well-developed sense of humor—and combines two previously uncombined materials—does something that has not been done before and, after the first bit of objection, a new style is established.

So it may be with shingled hair and earrings—short hair and ornate head-dressing. One of the leading American hairdressers makes charming little bandeaux for shorn heads. They are of ribbon and lace, artificial flowers, feathers, and other such stock-in-trade of frivolous fashion. Interestingly enough there are sets consisting of bandeau and garters to match. In England you know conservative aristocrats have been assuring themselves that shingles and tiaras simply do not go together. Yet there are duchesses and countesses who visit their barbers as frequently as any American flappers and somehow they manage to wear their diamond tiaras with charming effect.

THE OLYMPIC GAMES

The date of the original Olympic games, held in Greece, has been traced as far back as 1453, B. C. Athletics were a great part of the Greek civilization of that day. With the fall of the Grecian world-power the games fell into disuse, and were not revived till 1896, at Athens.

Drink Water to Help Wash Out Kidney Poison

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any druggist about four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help cleanse and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys twice a year.

SYNOPSIS

The wealthy B. J. Bledsoe has called at the home of John Manning, District Attorney, early in the morning. Bledsoe's son is to be tried that day for driving recklessly. When Manning declares it is his duty to prosecute the boy, Bledsoe makes a veiled threat against the District Attorney, who is a candidate for re-election. Eileen Manning, John's wife, overhears the conversation and when the caller has gone expresses sympathy for her husband.

"Don't let it trouble you in the slightest," he said with an air of indifference. "It had to come sooner or later and I'm glad it's over." Yet, she was not deceived. She knew that he was troubled. And Bob was still absent. She did not want him to displease his father on this, of all days.

When she finally followed her husband out upon the terrace to see him off to town, she once again protested her regret.

"It was all in the day's work, dear," he said gently. "My course was plain with Bledsoe. But it is not always easy to know what to do, yes, to have the courage to do it."

She watched him thoughtfully as he seated himself in the car. Then suddenly, she reached up and kissed him.

"May God always give you the courage to do the right thing, dear," she whispered.

She watched the car roll away. But hardly had it started when a figure shot out from the side of the house and overtook it. It was Bob.

"Take them away—I don't want them—I don't want them about."

and he was chewing as he went. There flashed into her mind a shocking picture of him gulping his coffee and bolting his food, of indigestion and kindred ills. But he had not failed his father. Gayly he answered their waved farewells only to grow very serious as they disappeared around a bend in the road.

"May God always give you the courage to do the right thing, dear," she repeated to herself, and now it was a prayer.

CHAPTER III

Eileen entered the breakfast room and gazed with interest at the big box which the maid had at that moment rested upon the table.

"What is that, Mary?"

The maid solemnly stared at it, as if she might gain some idea of its contents and then shook her head.

"I don't know, M'am."

"But where did it come from?"

Again the maid solemnly considered it, as if in search of an answer to the question propounded to her.

Eileen grew nearer and examined the box with care. "It's from Kemper's—flowers, of course. But, who can have sent them? I certainly haven't ordered any."

Suddenly Mary's face lighted as if she had found an answer to the riddle.

"Maybe," she giggled, "Miss Marjorie sent them to Mr. Bob."

"It would be like her," conceded Eileen. "But she would hardly address them to me, his mother."

"No M'am, she wouldn't," agreed the maid promptly.

Having by this time thoroughly aroused her curiosity, Eileen broke the string and lifting the cover of the box, exposed the mass of soft colored blooms within.

"Lilacs, how lovely," and suddenly a great tenderness seized her. "They must be from John, or from Bob as a remembrance of his birthday, but either of those foolish boys ought to have known that our bushes are in bloom, that we have bushes of lilacs right here at home. Isn't that just like men, Mary?"

The maid gazed gravely at a window as if in her experience she had found the stronger sex capable of untold nonsense.

"Yes M'am," she agreed with feeling.

Eileen leaned forward to breathe deeply of the sweet perfume which ascended from the box and caught sight of a bit of pasteboard.

"Ah, here's a card. That will explain this mystery." Eagerly she raised it and read the words written on it.

"You see I have not forgotten that your favorite flowers were lilacs. Not bad considering that twenty years have passed."

JERRY.

"The idea—the very idea!" exploded Eileen.

"Yes M'am," agreed the maid dutifully, but with a curious glance at the card, which made her mistress retain a tight grip upon it.

That Eileen was annoyed was plain. She bit her lips and regarded the flowers with anything but friendly eyes.

"Take them away—I don't want them—I don't want them about," she told the maid as she hastily thrust the box into her hands.

Mary, whose bright eyes had been diverted by a glimpse of the grocer's boy making for the kitchen, regarded her mistress with wonder, surprised at the change in her.

"Where to, M'am?"

"I don't care, anywhere, only I won't have them around." Then, growing calmer before the undisguised interest in Mary's eyes, she went on, "Send them to the hospital. I am sure that they will find use for them there."

When the maid had departed with the flowers, Eileen tore the card into bits with a vigor most uncomplimentary to its donor, and stood there thinking. And her thoughts were not pleasant. Against the happiness of this day which had promised so much had been marred by a disagreeable incident.

Even as she waited there, Mary returned.

"A Mr. Wallace—on the telephone for you, M'am."

"What?" Eileen was startled. Then, this gave way to indignation. It was as if she were being insulted. She was really angry, now. But under the inquisitive eyes of the maid, she grew wary and calmed herself with an effort.

"You may tell Mr. Wallace I am not at home, Mary," she said with a wry little look, while the maid received with a giggle and an aspect of profound wisdom in such matters.

Alone, Eileen was in no mood for mirth. She was stirred deeply by what had occurred. As she paced through the living room a little later an object on the floor caught her eye. Stooping, she picked it up. It was a spray of lilacs.

As she gazed at the purple loveliness of the trail petals, there was a dread and detestation in her eyes, as if masked within their gentle beauty lay concealed the venom of a serpent. Moving to the fire place, she hastily cast it from her and when she had done so, she paused to gaze up at the painting of her husband which hung above the mantel.

It was as if she had found an altar which brought peace to her soul. Her anger and annoyance faded swiftly before the wealth of tenderness which welled up in her heart. Love, devotion, yes worship, for the man portrayed there claimed every fiber of her being. He was her John, the father of her son, the mate by whose side she had climbed the rough path which leads from obscurity to honor. In the bliss of nuptial joys, in the cares and responsibilities of parenthood, in the common struggle for mere existence, their union had been made perfect, their love cemented until they were, in truth, one. Against such a jointed unit, could prevail, what shake its haloed that?

"TARNISH" AT RICHMOND HAS TEEMING PLOT

What would you do if you found your sweetheart in a manicurist's apartment?

That is the perplexing situation that confronts Letitia Tevis in the George Fitzmaurice production, "Tarnish," which comes to the Richmond theatre today and tomorrow.

Letitia Tevis, a young stenographer, had a definite reason for going straight to the manicurist's flat. Her father, a rounder from his earliest days, had been hood-winked out of a large sum of money by a manicure, and Letitia was determined to get it back. And who should she meet there? None other than the young man of her dreams. What did she do? What could she do?

The part of Letitia Tevis is played by May McAvoy, and the witchery of the manicure is revealed by Marie Prevost. Prominent also in the cast are Ronald Colman, Harry Myers, Norman Kerry, Priscilla Bonner, Alvin Karpis, and the young man of her dreams, who is played by the young man of her dreams, who is played by the young man of her dreams.

Large Gathering Is Expected At Institute Dance

B.) nationally known newspaper columnist who is to appear at the whist and distribute the prizes has changed his program slightly for the evening so that he can arrive at the party earlier. The program from KGO which will be received at the memorial hall over a loud speaker has been set at 8 o'clock and his appearance at the hall is scheduled for 9 o'clock.

NAVY ASSISTED IN SCREENING OF SHORE LEAVE

During the making of "Shore Leave," Richard Barthelmess' new picture which comes to the California Theatre today and tomorrow, the United States Government paid an unusual tribute to the popular young star.

Barthelmess won the confidence and esteem of government officials during the making of his big screen success, "Classmates." This was filmed at West Point with the co-operation of the United States Military Academy and the War department. It was screened with the utmost care and fidelity to military details and tradition. In fact, it was highly commended in government circles and has been shown before many governmental departments and at various army posts.

When Barthelmess decided to film

a story of a United States sailor the government put its full resources behind the plan. The star was invited to make a trip from Cuba to New York on board the battleship New York as a guest of the Navy. This was done so that he might get the right atmosphere and feeling for his role. Then Uncle Sam offered the use of the United States battleship Arkansas during a cruise from New York to Newport News. Many of the scenes of "Shore Leave" were filmed on the Arkansas.

Uncle Sam, too, loaned a squad of some fifty sailors from Brooklyn Navy yard for many of the studio scenes.

Other features on the same program include "Soup to Nuts," a Neal Burns comedy; "The Village School," a Hoage Dodge; International News; Larry Canelo at the organ.

Suit Looms In Death of Capt. Olson

a suit for heavy damages also looms. The coroner's jury's verdict read: "Death was caused by drowning, caused by having been knocked off his barge by a cable of the 'Alden Anderson.' We hold the proprietor of the barge and the barge company responsible for the fatality either through carelessness of the operator or inefficient help on the tug boat."

Instead of the usual prefatory examination into the cause of death the inquest resolved itself into a thorough and searching probe for the purpose of fixing the responsibility for the accident. Mrs. Olson's attorneys declined yesterday to discuss the case, pending the findings of the coroner. They announced last night after the hearing that in all probability they would go ahead with suit for damages.

Captain Olson was drowned and four members of the crew of the hay barge narrowly escaped with their lives when the barge cabin in which all five were asleep was torn away by a low hanging cable attached to the hole of the tanker "Alden Anderson." The barge was in tow of the launch "American" of the Harbor Launch and Tugboat company, of Oakland.

Government regulations and orders require all bay craft to keep at least 1000 feet away from the cable under which the "American" with the barge in tow attempted to pass.

and Mrs. Olson comprise the committee in charge and they announce at the meeting of the lodge last night that already they had provided a number of attractive prizes to be given for high honors.

A body of local members will go to Oakland this evening to hear the report of Mrs. Elizabeth Brockwell on the recent supreme lodge meeting held in Rhode Island. Mrs. Brockwell was the only delegate sent East from the Eastbay.

President Mrs. Elizabeth Valler presided over last night's meeting, which was followed by a social game of whist. Prizes were won by Mrs. Cook, Mrs. E. Mountford, A. Lambert.

Chevrolet Dealers Have Banner Month

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 22.—The Chevrolet Motor company has added another record to the series of sales and production marks established this year.

The new record is represented by the deliveries to Chevrolet dealers during August. A final check of August deliveries places the figures at 41,500, a larger number of cars than the company ever has placed with its dealers during any preceding August.

The August deliveries even exceed those made during either June or July of this year.

The achievement of the August record preceded by only a few days, production of the two-millionth car by the Chevrolet Motor company, the first manufacturer of selective gear shift automobiles to attain that figure.

Maintenance of deliveries through the summer months is cited by R. H. Grant, general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor company, as endorsement of his statement made

THREE GAMES FOR RICHMOND IN FOUR DAYS

Richmond Union high school will send three of its football teams into games this week. Coach Ivan Hill stated yesterday. A team composed of members of the 130-pound eleven and the third string of the unlimiteds will meet the second and third teams of Roosevelt high of Oakland battling jointly on Nicholl field this afternoon at 3:45 o'clock.

On Friday evening after school at the same gridiron the unlimiteds will play Fremont high of Oakland in Richmond's fourth game of the season.

Hill will take his second string to San Rafael on Saturday where a game will be played with the San Rafael Military academy at 10 a. m.

Although the men are going out to win in all three games, the Fremont-Richmond battle will be the biggest event and a victory for Richmond will go a long way toward the spirits of the eleven, after its downfall at Petaluma last Saturday.

Full credit was given Petaluma by Hill yesterday when he said that his men were outplayed by a more experienced and heavier eleven. Hill declared that his 145 pound backfield was playing in sand nearly ankle deep and couldn't get started.

A CROOKED POLITICIAN IS SUBJECT

Choosing as his subject "A Crooked Politician," Rev. Gideon Higginbotham preached a strong sermon before the congregation of the First Baptist church at a revival service held last night. Rev. Higginbotham employed the scripture from the nineteenth chapter of Luke in making his talk.

A quartet composed of Miss Grace Craven, Mrs. Perry Lasiter, Maurice Church and Dave Dillabaugh, sang several vocal numbers.

At tonight's service Rev. Higginbotham will speak on "Am I My Brother's Keeper?" On Friday evening, which will be devoted to the young people of the church, his subject will be "The Prodigal Son." "How May We Know Jesus Better" will be the subject of Rev. Higginbotham's sermon on Sunday morning.

RABBIT HUNTING PROVES COSTLY

Rabbit hunting proved to be a costly pastime for Gobatta Parodi of Richmond. He strolled through the hills near Pinole and bagged a few of the long-eared creatures of the sage brush. But Gobatta was without a license to hunt and its against the law to hunt rabbits anyway.

Returning from his wanderings with results of his efforts and the evidence he met Game Warden T. R. Duncan. The arrest was prompt. Halted before Justice of the Peace Terry of Pinole he was fined $25 for shooting the animals and $10 for hunting without a license.

To make a good day of it Duncan further continued his preambulations. As night drew near he met one Chysohino Kusano a Japanese of Berkeley toting an over supply of bass. This gentleman will be heard before Justice of the Peace E. P. Jackson of Concord.

Warning Sounded On French Debt

with the political philosophy and ambitions of M. Caillaux, which they obtained from secret sources. Their purpose in coming here at this time was to put the American commissioners and senators on their guard.

Caillaux is by far the shrewdest diplomat now in official life in Europe, the financiers said, and if the Americans are not on the alert he will "pull the wool over their eyes." His plans, in brief, as given to Senators follows:

The settlement must provide that for the first ten years France will be granted practically a moratorium. Should any payments be made they will be infinitesimal so they will place no burden on the taxpayers.

The French mission will make its fight along that line. If that concession is made, then Caillaux will agree to liberal settlements of principal, with a fair interest rate for the rest of the period.

In that way Caillaux hopes to so please the taxpayers of France that he will be awarded by being elevated to the premiership. Before expiration of the 10-year period Caillaux will have left the stage and will be indifferent to the fate of the agreement.

TO GET LOANS
Once the debt is funded on any terms, Caillaux figures, he will be able to obtain large loans in this country for use during the next ten years to bring about apparent prosperity in France to further his political aims.

There is a strong feeling in Europe that within ten years due to the changed industrial, financial and economic situation, there will be a readjustment of all the funding obligation.

Protest Handling Of Fighters' Fund

have at last come to our aid and are helping us to write our diary. The following just arrived from the "Snoophology Detective Agency."

Richmond Merchants Picnic at Alvarado Park on Sunday

For the purpose of assuring the success of the picnic, Harry Albert attendance chairman, bought all the tickets Mayer had left, but when he started distributing them he found he was worse off than the old woman in the shoe, so he turned the whole mess over to his good man Friday, alias, Sherlock Holmes Bargar. Now Bargar has a diploma from the Don, an Coyle Snoops Detective assassination and after an all night bust with his text books, etc., produced the following program: In order that all of Alberts force get by the gate keeper the following have sent in subscriptions to the FIGHTERS FUND as they intend to win the Tie Tying Contest. Some of them are already practicing on their brothers and sweeties so other entrants had better get busy: Miss "Elevator"

Eray found wearing a bow tie but promised to change when she learned the prize was for 4 in hands. Mrs. "Fatty" Burns wishes to enter, but others contented this would not be fair because of the marriage knot ties.

Miss "Alibi Ike" King should also be handicapped as she gets too much practice tying the tie backs on aprons.

Beauty O'Brien borrowed the cent sent in as he spent his last week's allowance on a bag of candy for the store girls.

Marie McNeill of the hostery department seemed out of the running for a while but O'Brien of the ties gallantly exchanged counters with her so in future he will let her tie the gents ties while he fits all the hose—he kicked about her getting the best of the bargain for he is much better at showing his mousing wear.

Johnnie Mixon thinks he has the sole chance to win as he ties all the laces on the shoes.

Rocca Cigar Harverly disputes this since her new line of tie-on girdles arrived.

Mrs. Zane expects to profit through tying bows on the perfume bottles and has all the girls in LaMoines chains working for her.

Crabby Warren was discovered writing her life history but will enter tomorrow so that all the honors will not go to Maggie Camerio in the bookkeeping department.

Mrs. "U Silly Lane" claims to have had 6 years helping her husband tie his tie so that should beat Camerio's record of 1.762 months of practice on her brother.

The above entrants have all been OKed by Snoopy Bargar.

how this little word pops up in the mind and oft-times is instrumental in prompting one to buy PRICE on the impulse of the moment rather than QUALITY, which after all is far more important than PRICE. There is a tendency towards a misconception of PRICE. After all, "You don't get something for nothing." The many things that enter into the cost of production and distribution create PRICE. Years of competitive business experience have reduced these important factors in PRICE to a minimum. You can therefore rest assured that you get only what you pay for. If the price is cheaper the merchandise likewise corresponds. In other words, PRICE and QUALITY go hand in hand in successful merchandising
